

A LIST OF MOSQUITO SPECIES REPORTED FROM TEXAS

J. S. WISEMAN

Supervisor, Entomology Division, State Department of Health Laboratories, Austin, Texas

Slightly more than one-half of the total number of mosquito species known to occur in North America north of Mexico have been reported from Texas. This list of mosquitoes of the State is submitted primarily for the benefit of students, teachers, sanitarians, and other individuals who may have an appreciable interest in the taxonomy, distribution, biology, and public health significance of mosquitoes but who may not have convenient recourse to pertinent literature references.

A number of the mosquitoes listed, particularly some species of Anopheles, Aedes, and Culex, are seldom collected and must be presumed to be rare in the State. Some are known from single or very scanty collection records. A few species, e.g., Anopheles albimanus and Psorophora mexicana, may have disappeared from Texas while others, e.g., Aedes cinereus and Ae. grossbecki, may yet be found to occur here.

Individuals who are more than casually interested in the mosquitoes of Texas are urged to consult such publications as those of Carpenter and LaCasse (1955), Stone, Knight, and Starcke (1959), Hill, Smittle, and Philips (1958), and "The Mosquitoes of Texas," the latter a 1944 publication that has been out of print for many years.
