

Cambridge, Dec 17th 68

My dear Sir,

I send you a few letters which it seems to me important for other people's sake[s] that you should have. I received Mrs Gray's note with your fair lines yesterday. I knew this loss must come very near by you, for I had conceived that H. was very valuable to you, though no one would ever have known it from him. I only hope he knows now how much we all thought of him, for he certainly had as little of that kind of enjoyment in this world as any mortal that ever lived: ~~he~~ knew my love for him but he was always agreeably surprised to hear that any one else cared much for him. I am trying & finding many things that he began - but I see that I cannot do all, for his frame work was very large - I am glad you estimate highly his teaching powers - I thought them fine too - but with what fear & trembling he took hold of

Mann, Mary Tyler Peabody. 1868. "Mann, Mary T. P. Dec. 17, 1868." Asa Gray correspondence. Senders McA-Ma

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/224822>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/250543>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Arcadia 19th Century Collections Digitization/Harvard Library

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The Library considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection

License: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/4.0/>

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.