My dear Professor,

Many thanks
Botanical Memoir received our common friend, Mr. J. is truly beautiful & the very acceptable. The part of Japan & its Relations America, I have read with deep interest. It opens a which I must confess myself altogether, a convert. To so offers a more rational expla-occurrence of so many iden-two countries, than that of flu-with different centres of creation indicate clearly that our flora original state, but has undergone through climatic & other in-portion of species, if any, in contemporaneous with the ap-upon the stage of action? It presents a wide field for the
