My dear Gray

I received yesterday your letter of the 17th— I am heartily glad you have so kindly determined to reprint; but I especially hope the your Review will appear in it.— The Edition might be entitled "Reprinted from corrected Second Edition with additional corrections." I enclose today some few additions <sup>(all that I have.)</sup> I will send in a fortnight a Reply giving a short history & opinion on origin of species.—

Since writing last I have had a letter from Mungo, the publisher; & he says "whatever benefit my name gives to the Reprint of your Book in U.S. you are fairly entitled to". — So he claims nothing. Perhaps you will like me to stand in Mungo's position & take 1/3 of the profits whatever they may be. — nothing until paid me 1/3 and as to take all the profit, as I shall & absolutely shall owe all to you; & if you will print your Review, it will be a joint publication.

Believe me, My dear Gray

(The article in Times & Huxley. —)

you must treat a gently

C. Darwin

If my additions & Reply shall come too late;
will not be blamed in vain, as they will do for French Edition or for any other Edition.—
