

Cyrus Nov 7/91

Dear Prof Sargent

Pardon me, but I do not quite understand why my spelling of Notholaena should have been changed to Noths-chlaena in the current number of my notes. I did not so write it in my MSS, and did not notice any such change in the proof sent to me for examination - if I had I should have changed it. I have always adhered to ~~Brown's~~ the first-spelling not only because it was Brown's original orthography but because it is simpler and more euphonious.

Prof. Eaton whose knowledge of Greek makes his judgment especially valuable in such matter always writes Notholaena adopting Brown's orthography, and I have felt safe in following his example.

The use of the harsher and more clumsy spelling makes my notes inconsistent with all of my previous notes and as I am not likely to adopt it in future notes I must claim the privilege of appending an explanatory note when the ~~next~~ proof comes to me

As thank you very much for having the extra open book to me

Very truly yours

Geo S. Dimond

Davenport, Geo. E. 1891. "Davenport, George E. Nov. 7, 1891 [to C. S. Sargent] [copy]." Asa Gray correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/221834>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/255103>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Arcadia 19th Century Collections Digitization/Harvard Library

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The Library considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection

License: <https://creativecommons.org/licenses/by-nc-sa/4.0/>

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.