

NEW YORK.

Feb. 28, 1890.

My Dear Dr. Watson:

Here is something that looks like a ♂ Phyllonopadix, and it is the same as something collected by Harrington in Alaska. Kindly glance at it and tell me if it can go to P. Scouleri. Some how none of that species has found its way here, but Hooker's figure and your descriptions seem to forbid this disposition of it. Kindly tell me what you think of it and paste the specimen into the Gray Herb.

Yours very sincerely,
H. L. Britton.

Britton, Nathaniel Lord. 1890. "Britton, Nathaniel L. Feb. 28, 1890 [to S. Watson]." Asa Gray correspondence
