

Malden, Mass., June 10, 1912.

Dear Mr. Collins,

I hoped to meet you at the Club Friday night, and thank you for the tree book, and the other paper you sent me, but you were not there; I think it is the best key by far, yet issued.

I had the time of my life at Bermuda; at my age it isn't often that a man can say of any two weeks, that they had the most things satisfactory, and the fewest things that one would wish different, of any two weeks in his life; but that ~~was~~ the case at Bermuda.

I collected a great amount of algae, which I have in formalin, to study as I can; I am putting in all my spare time now, and finding many interesting things. I think I have a few mosses, but am not sure; if I come across them, I will send them to you, if you care for them. I sent a few scraps of Hepaticae to Evans, and I think he found six species among them.

Very truly,

Frank S. Collins

Collins, Frank S. 1912. "Collins, Frank S. June 10, 1912." James Franklin Collins correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/258600>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/273687>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Andrew W. Mellon Foundation

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The BHL considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection.

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.