Cambridge, Mass., U.S.A.

March 16 1905.

I enclose Mr. Collins, I am greatly obliged for the mosses you sent. The species themselves are very interesting and the specimens very fine. I never found Utricularia angustata but once and, although the books do not say so, I think that it must be rare. I hope that sometime

I may find Paleodilla growing. It must be a beautiful plant and it is so striking that it is hardly likely that I have overlooked it if I have ever really been where it grows.

Yours, truly,

W. G. Foulser,

Farlow, W. G. 1905. "Farlow, William G. Mar. 16, 1905." James Franklin Collins correspondence
