

54 Concord Avenue,
Cambridge, Mass. Nov. 15, 1899.

Mr. J. Franklin Collins,
Brown University,
Providence, R. I.

My dear Mr. Collins:-

Your note of Nov. 12th is at hand. I shall be very glad to see your Dicrana determined as well as undetermined. Since I am at present having to favor my eyes some I shall of necessity be slow in working them up. If, under the circumstances, you care to send them to me I shall be glad to attend to them as I can. It will be very convenient should you bring them up as you suggest at the time of the next club meeting. Should you see fit to send them to me before that time, my address is 54 Concord Avenue.

I anticipate much pleasure in looking over your mosses, since I think it probable that they will furnish information on some points that I very much desire to see elucidated.

Yours very truly,

Rodney H. True
