

1418 Newton St., Brookland, D.C.

November 12, 1906.

My dear Professor Collins:-

I believe I have been very impolite to you in connection with your kind offer to let me look over your Gaspe Bay Dicrana. I received your note and intended to answer it affirmatively but the moment escaped and in the hurry of hospitals and doctors to which we were then experiencing, I failed. Our trip by was worth it all and is a great joy.

But I do want to see the Dicrana if I still may have the chance. I am much interested in sexual species and would like to see what you found. I am scratching at an occasional pocket at rare intervals.

I hope you may come to Washington and that we may have the pleasure of seeing you at our house,

Sincerely yours

Rodney W. True

Ans'd.
Will send when?
can get them
soon

True, Rodney H. 1906. "True, Rodney H. Nov. 12, 1906." James Franklin Collins correspondence

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/258527>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/276076>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Andrew W. Mellon Foundation

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The BHL considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection.

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.