

July 19th, 1923

My dear Mr. Powell:

Your letter of the eighth July has just come in. When the specimens referred to in that letter reach the herbarium they will receive prompt attention. In my letter to you of the sixteenth July I referred to your 304 as probably being Epidendrum latilabre. Until I see the vegetative parts it will be safe, I think, for you to use that name. The fact that your opinion formed independently of mine places no. 304 in E. latilabre is significant.

The additional containers and large bottles must have reached you by now. An additional supply of labels will be forwarded to you just as soon as the printer makes delivery. The sample and order went out over a week ago.

Your fears for my health are really groundless. After a short rest, regular exercise and a change of occupation I regained that normalcy in the realm of health that stimulates a desire for work.

Please keep my wishes regarding Vanilla in mind.

Have you received Sched. Orch. 5. Up to this writing I have not noted a reference to it in your letters. My only fear is, that the copy sent early in June has failed to reach its proper destination.

Yours faithfully,

Chas. Oakes

Ames, Oakes. 1923. "Ames, Oakes July 19, 1923 [to C.W. Powell]." Oakes Ames Orchid Herbarium correspondence files

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/262809>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/281142>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Harvard University. Anonymous Donor.

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The BHL considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection.

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.