

Gray Herbarium

Harvard University

B. L. ROBINSON, Curator

CAMBRIDGE, MASSACHUSETTS, U. S. A.

Dear Dr. Kennedy:

10 June, 1907.

I do wish I had some way of telling you how deeply I feel your kindness and generosity in giving another thousand dollars to the Gray Herbarium. Your gift has made me very happy, not merely because it takes a considerable load of anxiety off my mind but because it is such a cordial evidence of your belief in our work at the Herbarium. You have no idea how much this means to us. I assure you it is the greatest stimulus to do our best. I am especially pleased that with the five hundred dollars for the library we can again devote particular attention to filling out gaps among our books. In referring to such noble series as the Revue Horticole and Cassini's Dictionnaire I always think with a great deal of gratitude of your kindness; for it is to you we owe our copies of many of these monumental works.

With kindest regards I am

Sincerely and gratefully yours,

B. L. Robinson.

Dr. George S. Kennedy.
