Oct. 13th / 1892

My dear Deane:

At last I have time to answer your letter of Sept 7 although I believe I promised you one early in August. But I am not going to apologize now for this and yet perhaps I ought to for the postal card I sent during the summer for you misunderstood it. There has been no recent increase in my family except my botanical one. In the latter which is growing pretty fast & I am expecting some twins and triplets soon. Now it was one of these plants that ~~as~~ of the ~~of~~ as a "pet without a name". One that I have been growing in my own yard all summer and watching with a good deal of interest. I had intended to follow up my card with a letter in a few days explaining the former. The plant is a very curious little Acanthaceae for which I can not find a generic place. I propose to name it for a particular friend of mine in my next "Contribution". I have it in flower and shall have made a fine plate to accompany the description.

My wife and family have been home about 2 weeks, and it is very nice to have them back again. I have made two visits to Indiana during the summer and will probably go again in a few weeks.

How I do wish you might make us a little visit this fall. Why can't you?
We have received some specimens this year and you can have your pick. But if you can't come I want you to do up a bundle of say 50 of your duplicates and send on your desideratum & I will see that some of your gaps are filled up. I want you to send a few duplicates so that I may have an excuse to get you out a bit.

I send you the pictures of my two tables.
They are not very good but they are some of my own work.

How are things getting on at the herbarium? I would so much like to come up again.

Dr. Vasey has just returned from Europe. He has been away about 6 weeks.

I will send you new labels for those numbered. I was so busy that I had to leave the labeling of my plants to one of the clerks and one who is very careless. I mean to write again soon. Just Rose sends regards.

Yours very truly
J. N. Rose
