

Hosterwitz b. Dresden

Jan. 13. 1907

Dear Mr. Deane,

Many sincere thanks for Mrs. Deane's and your letters and fine Christmas-cards that came right on the eve and for your letter of Dec.
30. that I received yesterday!
My mother and I are very glad to learn that you both have been very well and had a pleasant Christmas. Our Christmas was not as bright as we had expected this time.
My mother is ill since the air. Gardens and windows are peopled at present with the old feathered friends, specially Doves, Linnets and Serplings species. They prove no true friends so long as the food-sugar are filled.

How we wish to hear Deane and yourself a very happy pleasant year and very much yours in warmest greetings to you both.

Very sincerely yours

A. Mackay

first week of December with a renewed attack of her old phlebitic sufferings. It is getting much better now, she shall however be confined to bed for yet 2 or 3 more weeks.
I am always much in anxiety on account of her increasing age.

December has brought us this time genuine winter with some very cold days and a couple of right blizzards.
Since beginning of this year warm foggy weather has set in and today we had a thunder-storm. There is much electricity accumulated in the Blaschka, Rudolf. 1907. "Blaschka, Rudolf Jan. 13, 1907." Rudolf Blaschka letters to Walter Deane

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/158899>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/298540>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

IMLS

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The Library considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection

Rights: Harvard University Botany Libraries

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.