

BROWN UNIVERSITY HERBARIUM,
PROVIDENCE, R. I.

April 25th 1893,

My Dear Deane,

Your abounding youth and vim is my envy. When you speak of riding your wheel from Lantic End to Cape Cod, and of working on your herbarium by night and day - "I smile and say - this is no flst-teny." How the deuce does he do it. Horatio, how knowest thou how sad all is about my heart.
To think that I am practically deprived from excursions, and that I can no longer, without extreme pains, do herbarium work or any writing, I feel very downy. Still, I keep up a message of hope.

Last week I was miserably sick with influenza, and lost flesh, hearing, smell. I was sick anything. I am better - but by no means gay. Today - I eat no - duced the subject of grasses to my classes (providing my decline and fall off, as the teggs would say), and will they not sigh when they view the dise reality, with glumes, palea, coleus etc. By the by, what does the Nation mean by so high praise of such a book as the late one of Davis? It seemed to me poor stuff. Tell me, O Beloved, doth thou arrange thy Herbal by the new system of Britton and the rest — all honourable men?

Must I, too, come to it?

The elms' craze still prevails, my wood — all my elms and their dam. Many thanks for your kindly contributions.

My Assistant — Osterhout, is to assist Prof Seelby at Woods Hole this summer. Brown is pretty strong down there, with Burriss, Osterhout, Gray, Walmsley, Dexter, Hemsley etc.

I have not seen out as yet, but I do hope I may yet see my Liver Hepatic. I know a bank whereon it grows, and near by the Campanula, and in the swampy ground just back, the Balsam Fir. Do you like the old maple? The smell of its blossoms is as little to the ear horse with me. It is the earthy and quite different odor of some mosses.

But I feel considerably rich bright & most free up.
I am always
Your chummy
