

Providence, by Leekholm
Jan 1, 1904

My dear Deane, I seem to have an almost fatal facility for disposing of you in Boston. Observe how I crawled out of it like Helix - n.e.e. snail, devoured of Johnny Cropeau. The chief cause of this special miserie is to ask thee, at Collins's reg-gestion, whether you contrived to buy a menin Caul of the late gesture botanice Arinoe. If no, I want one. Here Dierks represented by Celeris inflated petiole & Monsarts by the endogenous stem of Asparagus officinale? What are the things of which this young man talketh? Truly what is Boston but a dream, a vain vision I have pursued in vain? But do raise me a programme: of you and how to proceed: do you to them it, then find what suey
