DEPARTMENT OF HORTICULTURE AND LANDSCAPE GARDENING.

Agricultural College, I. O.

Ingham Co., Mich., May 26 1887

My Dear Deane:

When you are at the Gardens again please look at Robinia hispida and see if any of the specimens have seeds. In a French book, which I am reading, I find the statement that it never produces seeds, either in Europe or America.

I have also another favor to ask. In Dr. Goodale's Botany, p. 458, note, a reference is made to a paper on the influence of foreign pollen on fruit by Maximowicz. If not too much trouble, will you please look it up and see how extensive a paper it is and in what language. If it is worth having I will send abroad for it. Among other things, I have just got John Smith's Domestic Botany.

I am in no hurry for these replies.

Don't get much time to botanize.
When do you have vacation?

Yours - L. H. B. Jr.
