

GIDDINGS & BLAINE, PROP'RS.

Geneva, N. Y., Apr. 23 1888

My Dear Deane:

Yes, it is true, as you say, that I roam about a good deal. But I can't help it. I roam much more than you know about. My wife says that I belong to the public and not to her any more. I begin to feel that it is so.

Spring is ~~very~~ backward this year. Scarcely anything out yet except a few Hepaticas.

I am tired, but must jog on. I have been here a half day. Home

the last of the week.

As ever,

J. H. Dailey.
