

Apr. 5, 1890

My Dear Deane:

The Carex index is just at hand, and I am greatly obliged for it - and pleased with it. It is nicely done, and will be of great use to me.

I will keep your desiderata in mind, for during the season I shall undoubtedly get some of them.

I should like to have heard your lecture!

I am interested to know what Carex you are going to send me.

It now begins to look like spring, and hepaticas are out. It will be interesting to collect by the new Manual.

We are all well.

Yours truly
L. H. Bailey
