Dear Deane:

Back again! I took a little scud down to Atlantic City, and had a good time.

Yes, your care is universal — both of them.

That was a sad experience for poor Bebb. Ever since I saw him at Chicago last year, I have had a feeling of great sorrow for his condition. He looked so different from his former self!

Like you, I have taken to reading novels of late.

I always enjoy it-, but rarely find the time. I read Elsmere some time ago, but have not yet attacked Mrs. Ward's recent volumes. I am now just finishing Fool's Errand.

I like Raud's Flora very much. It is careful and conservative and studiously made. I like the forms.

I am now O.K.,
except pretty sore.

Thine, for keeps,

F. H. Bailey
