

Ep'd Nov. 14. 1892.

Dear Mr. Deane,

I send you another figured, which I think is new to the Catalogue, sure. I call it Chen-ambrosioides, L. Do you? It was growing in the sand under the lee of a boat drawn up for the winter, I suppose, on an old wharf - a little clump of three or four plants, of which this was the best. There was not a truly perfect leaf on any of them. I found this yesterday and have just examined the fruit under the glass. I found much work awaiting me, ^{for} club, horticultural society and family, but I shall work through in a week I think, & then write you a letter.

I directed "Brester Place".

Yours very truly M. L. Deane -

I suppose you got the other plant
