

Cambridge

Nov. 11,

1899.

Dear Mr. Deane

I am much obliged to you for your letter of congratulation. Naturally I have no doubt
that my friends,
especially those who
know Miss Howford, feel that I am to be congratulated very much but, nevertheless, it is an additional pleasure to hear them say so.

It is also pleasant
to know that my
married friends,
speaking from their
own experience,
are glad to assure
me that there is nothing like married life to make one happy while, on the other hand,
my bachelor friends
are apparently sincere in saying that they feel that I am to be envied as well as congratulated.

Thanking you and Mrs Deane, for I understand that your letter expresses her feelings as well as your own, I am,

Yours, truly,
W. G. Harlow.

Farlow, W. G. 1899. "Farlow, William Gilson Nov. 11, 1899." Walter Deane correspondence –.
