

New Haven - Feby 20. 1846

Friday

Dear Gray:

I have at last got my title page & table of Contents, with the closing form of the volume - and two of Hales - which I shall give tomorrow to the Express - I have also signatures 29, 30, 40, 52, 72, 107 & 164 - for my volume which have been reprinted (more a month ago now) : but as they will be of no particular use to you I retain them. The two first you have ^{put} in the separate copy of the Introduction - I have packed up half a dozen copies of the Introduction (on Structure) for you and send the whole with other copies for Bostonians & Dr Gould - to save you the trouble of ^{it} distributing - I have put up a copy for Decaine of Paris & for Forbes of London & but for no other Botanist ~~of~~ ^{to} go with the Journal of Science - In your bundle then is a copy by Dr. Hahn, which you will oblige me by giving him.

I hear nothing yet from Washington - It is most provoking. - Had you not better have a review of Hale's in the April number of the North American; it will give you an opportunity to express the opinions you suggested. As you say, there is no time to be lost.

One word about the plan of my book. - I have considered corals as animal, and whatever characters belonged to the living Zoophyte have been mentioned first in the descriptions - afterward, if any other characters of importance were presented by the coral, (that is, characters not determinable except when ^{it was} stripped of the fleshy portion,) they have been given - & with an animal, the animal as a whole is first described, and then any peculiarities of the skeleton are mentioned. for coral is in general an internal secretion; you might as well say that a man lives in his skeleton, as that the coral contains polyps. -

I have not inclosed a copy to the Academy, as I have supposed that they would undoubtedly have the complete work.
Yet tell me - had I not better send one? -

Very sincerely yours
James D. Dana

P. S. - The bundle you sent at ~~you~~ ^{to} Boston is a heavy one - 7 copies - I have desired him to send it to you; but perhaps you had better keep it. — your J. D. D.
