

Ne
New York, March 10th 1859

Dear Doctor

I fully expected to leave here for Cambridge the present week - but to-day I have been informed that a very important patent case, in which I am a witness (having been employed by one of the parties) comes off certainly on Monday next. I deeply regret this - not so much on my own account - because I can run off for two or three days, at almost any time - but ~~that~~ we are all so anxious of seeing you dear good Jane as soon as possible

We are persuaded that it would do her good to break off from care of house-keeping & spend as much time with us as she can, without giving tired you. All of us will be so glad to have her with us if we will let her have her own way. Now if you know of any one coming this way, who will take charge of her, let her come on at once. Or telegraph to me on Friday (tomorrow) afternoon - & I will start on Saturday to meet her half way on the road. After she gets tired of us I will return with her.

I hardly think it would be right to make you a visit (even for three days) while she is so feeble.

The trial, to which I have alluded, will probably not detain me longer than Monday. I can go to Cambridge the next day - but I still think it will be better for Jane to come on here first.

Yours ever
John Torrey

BHL

Biodiversity Heritage Library

Torrey, John. 1859. "Torrey, John Mar. 10, 1859." John Torrey letters -.

View This Item Online: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/item/310915>

Permalink: <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org/partpdf/343319>

Holding Institution

Harvard University Botany Libraries

Sponsored by

Arcadia (Open Collections)

Copyright & Reuse

Copyright Status: Public domain. The BHL considers that this work is no longer under copyright protection.

This document was created from content at the Biodiversity Heritage Library, the world's largest open access digital library for biodiversity literature and archives. Visit BHL at <https://www.biodiversitylibrary.org>.