My dear Mr Gray

Your very friendly letter which reached me yesterday is a great pleasure to me. Now that my botanical career has come to an end I am very glad to see that there are still a few old friends who do not forget me - I wish indeed it were possible for me to come over to see you and Mr Gray and your surroundings, I always had a great desire to cross the Atlantic and was once very near doing so but family ties have always kept me at home till old age has stepped in and put an end to all projects of distant travel and now even a visit to the country in England is beyond my powers I still now and then drive down for a few hours to see but do nothing there say more than at home

The Webbs seem very flourishing, and are always exceedingly kind and friendly to me - his speech on Monday on viewing the Geographical model, seems to have been exceedingly well received. He is a little overworked as usual but appears to be in excellent health

Judge Denby (my old friend & Nat) tells me that Lord Coleridge who is going over to North America is very desirous of an introduction to Dr Gray I unfortunately am not personally acquainted with Lord C. but a man of his reputation both publicly and privately has I think no need of a personal introduction - though I suppose he will have provided himself with one

You refer to Herefordshire and Portchase - you had visit there will always remain one of the most pleasing recollections of our sojourn in the west - Whether we now ever meet again or not I shall ever remain so long as I live

Yours sincerely attached
